

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for generating a digital representation of an image by scanning the image with two different types of light. A system for use in generating a digital representation of an image, as well as digital representation of an image are also provided.

513378.01